

Someone to come home to

By

Jpearson

(July 2009)

[Refrain]

It's always nice to have someone to come home to
Someone who can pick you up when things (life) have (has) got you down.
Someone who can show you that the world's a better place
Yes its nice to have someone to come home to
Even better when that someone is you

Some days suck – that's right -and you'll know them from the start
Some days will start you wondering what happened to people's hearts?
Some days you'll want to turn around and climb back into bed
And pull the covers way up above your head

There's times we have to do things we don't want to do but must
There's times when we're 'round people and can't tell of whom to trust
There's times you want to run away and hide and close your eyes
But I'll be there for you and that's no lie.

[Refrain]

It's always nice to have someone to come home to
Someone who can pick you up when things (life) have (has) got you down.
Someone who can show you that the world's a better place
Yes its nice to have someone to come home to
Even better when that someone is you

[Instrumental]

[Bridge]

I'll be there to comfort you when things have gone awry
I'll be there to wipe your tears when you begin to cry
Yes I will be your pillar, your rock that soothes your soul
And I'll be by your side as we grow old

[Refrain]

It's always nice to have someone to come home to
Someone who can pick you up when things (life) have (has) got you down.
Someone who can show you that the world's a better place
Yes it's nice to have someone to come home to
Even better when that someone is you
It's even nicer when that someone is you...